OVER SIX FEET UNDER WATER.

Arkansas City Flooded - Over One Hundred Villages in the Southwest Deserted.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., May 29 .- This city is now under six to eight feet of water, and not a dry spot of land within two miles. Every railroad centering here has been abandoned, and all business has been suspended. Everybody is living on their second floors, and this message is sent from an attic, the ground floor being covered with water. Over one hundred villages in the valleys of the Arkansas, Red. White and St. Francis rivers have been depopulated and swept away, and will never be rebuilt until the country gets adequate flood protection. Of twenty thousand people who were in Chicot and Desha counties two months ago not two hundred now remain, these being poor people who are only awaiting boats to get away.

The gossip was considerably augmented at a late hour to-night by the unexpected Thomas C. Platt, of New York. Mr. Platt's visit was wholly divorced from politics. He came here to his son and daughter-in-law and to return to New York with Mrs. Platt. who has been the guest of her children for some days. Immediately upon the arrival at the hotel Mr. Platt repaired to the room of his son and declined to see newspaper

Among the visitors in the city to-day was ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer, of Michigan. Mr. Palmer was asked his opinion of the political situation and responded briefly: "I have been traveling over the country a great deal recently and have no more doubt of President Harrison's renomination and re-election than I have of my own existence." Mr. Palmer left to-night

Will Be Nominated. PITTSBUEG, May 29.-The Commercial-Gazette, the recognized Quay organ of this city, will say to-morrow that Senator Quay thinks Blaine will be the nominee of the Minneapolis convention, and that he will be nominated on the first ballot. In an interview to-day Senator Quay spoke more freely and positively on the presidential situation than he has on any previous occasion.

"Who do you think the Republican convention will nominate for President?" was asked the Senator. "Blaine," was the prompt reply, and as

Mr. Quay uttered the name of the Secretary he leaned forward in the arm-chair in which he was resting and added: "I hat is, of course, providing he will take the nomi-"Do you think he will accept it?" "Nobody but Blaine himself can answer

The Servant Girls of the Day.

Amelia E. Barr, in North American Review. The carrying out of three points would probably revolutionize the whole condition of service: First, the relation should be put upon an absolutely commercial basis, and made as honorable as mechanical, or factory, or store service. Second, duties and hours should be clearly defined. There should be no interference in personal matters. There should be no more personal interest expected or shown than is the rule between any other employer and employe. Third, if it were possible to induce yearly engagements they should be the rule, for when people know they have to put up with each other for twelve months they are more inclined to be patient and forbearing. They learn to make the best of each other's ways, and bearing becomes liking and habit strengthens liking, and so they go on and on, and are pretty well ast-

WESTERN LEAGUE.

President Golt's Team Had the Good Will of the Gods.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, O., May 29.—The threatening weather kept many away from to-day's game, but, in spite of the lowering clouds, about 2,500 spectators saw the tail-enders beat the leaders in a pretty contest. Madden was wonderfully effective, and kept the hits so scattered that Columbus could get but one run. Berger, at short, showed up in hit-paralyzing form, making eleven double-cinch stops. The only error of the game was his high throw of Walsh's grounder in the third inning. This ferror was not costly, as Quinn caught the venturesome runner easily a moment later at second. Hick Carpenter caught several foul flys in masterly style, while Genins took care of second as a master of that difficult position. A queer play occurred in the first inning. Genins had been retired, and O'Brien had gone to first on balls, when Lawrence, in trying to get out of the way of a ball, rapped it down towards first. O'Brien was caught at second by Breckenridge's throw to Walsh, and, as Lawrence supposed the ball had gone foul, he did not attempt to run, and was easily retired in a laughable double play. This was all the result of poor coaching. O'Brien was un-

In the fatal seventh inning Indianapolis won the game. After Campan had taken care of O'Brien's long fly, Lawrence was sent to first on balls. "Grandpap" Carpenter then hit safe to left and Letcher drove one to the left-field fence for three bags, scoring two runs. Berger's line drive went into Walsh's hands and Nagle popped up a foul which Merritt got under.
In Columbus's half, Lally led off with a clean triple to right, and McClellan flew out to left. Breckenridge caught one fair and it struck the fence in left field just under the top. Lally scored and Breckenridge got as far as second, where he was forced to become mildewed as no one could bring him home. Genins displayed great nerve when Campau spiked him badly for the new man went right on, though with a decided limp for a time. Columbus spectators had great admiration for the Hoosier

bruised; indeed, he only swung at the ball

with his right hand.

TRAIN-ROBBER CAPTURED.

One of the Murderers of Saunders Arrested in Florida-Hunting the Wrong Man.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 29 .- For three days officers of the Southern Express Company, three sheriffs and several armed posses, with bloodhounds, have been scouring the country penetrated by the railroads leading out of Palatka for Bob Floyd. the fourth one of the robbers who killed Messenger Saunders at Monroe Junction on the morning of May 21. Last night they had tracked a fugitive answering Floyd's description to the swamp near Jennings Station, close to the Georgia line, in Hamilton county. This man had jumped from a bridge thirty feet into the Suwanee river when being pursued by the posse on a locomotive. He was wounded yesterday afternoon by two of the workmen in the turpentine camp near Jennings, and at dark was lying concealed in the swamp surrounded by fifty armed men with dogs. His capture was confidently looked for this morning, but the real Floyd unexpectedly turned up in Alachua county last night. A special dispatch from Gainesville, Fla., says: "Bob Floyd is now in jail here. He was captured by Sheriff Fennell and his posse at Jonesville, twenty-five miles west of this place, Saturday. Floyd is a slight, boyish-looking lad, with smooth face, and eyes tired and sad. He told his story frankly and freely, and impressed all who heard him as being a simple country lad, led by evil companions and whisky into commission of crime. He made a confession, giving all the facts in the case. His account of the planning of the attempted robbery tallies very closely with the confession of Futch, who is in the Orlando jail, and with the newspaper stories.'

William Lord Moore, who gives an address in Ingersoil Road, Shepard's Rush, London, has been advertising extensively in American papers that a billion and a half only awaits claimants, to be paid over to them, and that if 25 cents are sent to him he will begin preliminary investigation. He has obtained a number of clients. This is one of his schemes. Writing to a Delaware client, Moore says: "In view of your statement and investigations made as to this estate (worth a vast amount) I will take your claim for $6 on every thousand dollars gained, at fair valuation. In every case a bond must be provided to secure costs by a person owning property where the suit is brought. You need not, however, secure this bond. I can get a bondsman to serve you and take all risks for $40. You | sports, vanished in every direction, none will be obliged by law to begin at once, as you have had notice of your rights. Send $40 to me by registered letter while I get everything ready to proceed at once. Let no one know of your good fortune, or bogus claimants will surely appear, and your rights will be delayed until their claims have been heard. If not convenient to send the whole $40 at once, send half, and I shall feel justified in proceeding without delay."

A representative of the United Press called at the address in Ingersoll Road this afternoon, but there was no one at nome. It is a small house, and the landlord said: They are very seldom in. Moore has sent his wife away, and there is another woman living in the house now. He is here to-day and gone to-morrow. He has Leen here a year, and has paid up two quarters rent. So long as he pays I am not supposed to concern invself about him. He is seldom at home during the day."

General Mussey was a native of New Hampshire, where he was born May 30, 1833. He afterwards removed with his parents to Cincinnati. While a young man he was for a time engaged in newspaper work, and during the winter of 1859-60 he was the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette. Mr. Mussey rendered active service during the war, and received a medal for special bravery. He was probably the first officer of the regular army who offered his services in connection with colored troops. In 1883 he was detailed to duty in organizing such troops, and assisted in recruiting ten regiments. Afterwards he served for a time as private secretary to President Johnson, and during this time he was made colonel by brevet in the regular army and brigadier-general by brevet of volunteers. In 1867 the General was admitted to the bar here, and has practiced before the Supreme Court and before international commissions. He was a comprehensive student, a ready writer and a clear and forcible speaker. He took an active part in the presidential campaigns since 1860. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by the trustees of Marietta College.

ON BEING DEAF GRACEFULLY.

Instead of Being a Check to Conversation a Deaf Man May Give Pleasure. Scribner's Magazine. To be handsomely and agreeably deaf is a very elegant accomplishment, fit to exercise social talents of a high order. The person who aspires to it must check in a considerable measure a deaf person's natural tendency to shun society and flock by himself. He must continue to mix with so far conceal his infirmity as to make it a cause of discomfort to none but himself. However little he hears he must never seem unduly desirous to hear more, or yet indifferent to what is being said. However impossible it may be for him to take part in conversation, he must neither permit himself to be bored nor to appear so. It is his business always to have the means of entertaining himself in his own head, so that while he continues in company his mind may be constantly and agreeably occupied, however little he may bear. In almost any company a deaf man to whom things that have been said have to be repeated is a check to free discourse; a deaf man who is eager to hear and cannot is a discomforting sight; a deaf man who is bored and wishes himself elsewhere is a depressing influence; in either case he had better go elsewhere. The tolerable deaf man is one who, being in congenial company, can give pleasure by his mere presence, as he can take pleasure in merely having his friends about him. His thoughts must run, not on what he cannot hear, but on what he sees and feels, and upon the ideas that come into his own mind. A deaf man who is always able to entertain himself, and who is always glad, and never overanxious to know what is going on about him, has reasonable grounds for believing that at least he is not an incubus upon society. If to his negative accomplishments he can add the habit of having something worth hearing to say, he can even hope to be considered agreeable, and to have his society as welcome to ordinary selfish people as to the
